Reservation of title: Title to any goods supplied by the company shall not pass to the Purchaser until all payments due in respect of the goods are made in full by either the acceptance of Sterling currency by an authorised agent or the Company's bank account being credited with cleared funds. Until such time as title is transferred the goods shall remain the absolute property of the Vendor. Default of payment by the Purchaser, when lawfully demanded by the Vendor, the Vendor shall be entitled to enter the premises of the Purchaser, and recover the goods. If, nevertheless, the Purchaser sells the goods or sells items into which the goods have been incorporated before the goods have been paid for in full, he shall hold the proceeds of sale on trust for the Vendor and the Vendor shall be entitled to trace the goods into such items of proceeds of sale.
